About Punjab :

Punjab, the land of five rivers, has land with prosperity. The plains of Punjab, with their fertile soil and abundant water supply, are naturally suited to be the breadbasket for India. The land of Punjab is a land of exciting culture. The state has achieved tremendous growth over the years due to the success of the Green Revolution in the early 70s. For a major period in the second half of the 20th century, Punjab led the other states in India to achieve self-sufficiency in crop production. Punjab is said to have derived its name from the five rivers that flow through this region - Indus, Sutlej, Beas, Ravi and Ghaggar. It was a region that formed parts of the Indus Valley civilization. The Aryans settled in this region in about 1500 B.C.

About College :

Khalsa College of Engineering and Technology founded in 2009. KCET, Amritsar is fast emerging as new centre of excellence in technical education in the holy city of Amritsar. Located in the lush green environment in the heart of the city, the aesthetically designed college building is a fine blend of the traditional and the modern architecture. It is a place where tradition blends modernity, talent meets opportunity and merit gets recognition. Its state-of-the-art infrastructure provides its students a study-conducive atmosphere. The highly qualified and experienced faculty is leading the students on road to academic milestones every year. The college is setting new benchmarks in all the aspects of higher education and the days are not far when its name will be counted in the list of top engineering colleges of India.

Programme Objective are:

1. To help the participants (Faculties/ Instructors) to understand the needs of students in present economic scenario.
2. To develop their capability in designing and implementing a comprehensive small business and entrepreneurship development package for their students.
3. To develop the knowledge and counselling skills related to launching and managing small industrial / business ventures.
4. To inculcate abilities in the participants so that they are able to motivate the students to opt self-employment as a career.
